

Engineering Technician

Mission statement

Prytime Medical's mission is to design and develop rapidly delivered minimally invasive solutions for vascular trauma. The individual who will thrive in this position is a self-motivated, proficient technician who enjoys the fast pace and accountability of a small company and wants to take high value ideas from concept to commercialization. This role will support a variety of projects.

Primary

- Strong experience with hands-on mechanical/electrical assembly
- Strong experience with medical devices and electronics
- Strong experience assembly/testing/troubleshooting devices
- Strong experience designing, executing, and documenting experiments
- Competent working within a Quality Management System
- Experience creating, editing and approving documents in an electronic document control system
- Demonstrated ability to prioritize, initiate, and drive tasks to completion
- Excellent ability to multi-task between projects
- Excellent interpersonal/communication/presentation and technical writing skills
- Excellent customer support skills
- Confident taking initiative
- Successful in small team environments

Secondary

- Desktop support experience
- Graphic design experience
- Webpage design/editing experience

What is the work you will be doing?

- Works closely with project manager and other team members to deliver concepts to production
- Assembles, maintains, troubleshoots devices
- Customer support (phone/video conference) for devices in the field
- Creates, documents, and assists with the filing of intellectual property
- Designs, executes, and documents experiments
- Writes/reviews technical reports
- Designs assembly processes and provides input for equipment design

Travel

- Yes, 5%